

Annotated Logo

When I started off my logo I did four designs and I chose my second one because it just looked better than the other three, this looked funkier than the other three because its more like a logo then the other three would.

I choose 3 colours for my logo I chose red because it stands out and it is an eye catching colour. The blue and green look good together and all the colours work well together.

The Logo was drawn by myself on Microsoft Photodraw V2, it was hard work but it pays off, it was hard trying to do the curvy because when I planed it out in rough its much easier to draw in pencil than on Microsoft photodraw.

I did the hear blue because when I did it a different colour it look out of place so with it blue it looks better.

I put the name in the centre because it fills the space and looks good. I think it pulls the whole logo together.

The whole logo is someone running which I think goes with the name.

This is what my other logos looked like, and I this my chosen one looks much better.

The running theme is because when I thought of Get Set its what you say when your going to run so that's how I came up with the running theme.
